McVEY DECIDES TO STAY IN KENTUCKY

President of State University Believes $8,000.00 Will Be Given For Upbuilding

Dr. Frank L. McVey will remain as president of the University of Kentucky says Thursday's Lexington Herald.

Late last night he announced in a formal statement that he had declined the presidency of the University of Missouri, offered two weeks ago. His decision has been awaited with interest since the announcement that he was considering the offer from the larger institution.

"If I did not believe that the state will get behind the university at the next legislature for a greater appropriation, I should not have decided to remain here," Doctor McVey said last night.

"When the offer of the presidency of the University of Missouri was made to me in the first instance, I fully decided at that time that I would accept. Since then indications are that the University will be backed up by the state, and I have decided to work here to help make the University of Kentucky a greater institution and promote greater interest in the institution.

"If all the factors had been in my hands at the beginning, I should have arrived at a decision much sooner," he said. "I have no statement to make beyond that which I have written. I never thought that so many people cared whether I remained here or not."

Doctor McVey remains in Kentucky at no increase in salary and on no definite conditions. Salary was never a factor in the decision, according to his friends, and the assurances of support in the university's expansion program from all parts of the state made definite promises unnecessary.

Prospects of getting support for the university expansion in the next general assembly were discussed at a meeting of the executive committee of the board of trustees and Dr. McVey yesterday afternoon, but the president did not announce his decision until late last night. Judge R. C. Stoll, Lexington, is chairman of the committee, and members who were present are Robert G. Gordon, Louisville, and Rainey T. Wells, Frankfort.

Presbyterians 5 6 244
Methodists 3 8 273
Catholics 2 6 250

(By E. T. Higgins)

The Baptists advanced another notch toward first place by defeating the First Christians on the Normal field by a score of 12 to 11 in a ten inning game Wednesday. The First Christians out lucked the Baptists in the field and also out-hit them slightly but could not have the luck to combine their 18 hits in more than three innings which was not enough to defeat the coming Baptists. The First Christians gave Ab Oldham a seven run lead in the first two innings but he was unable to hold this lead.

Rallies in the ninth and tenth innings won for the Baptists. The winners' speed also helped them as they put runners in position to score with stolen bases. The Baptists can boast the fastest team in the league, having the two leading base stealers in the organization and six of the fastest men in the league.

Hembree pitched steady ball after the first two rounds. Berman, the Baptists' short stop, played a great game in short field. He made two fine stops of difficult ground balls and covered a world of ground.

Ab Oldham pitched a fine game until the ninth round when he weakened just enough to allow the Baptists to tally enough to win the game. He struck out 15 men which is quite a record for a pitcher that had as little practice as Oldham. In three innings he retired all the men by the strike-out route.

When the game looked as good as won and a good many fans had left, the Baptists tied the score on hits by Carter, Gentry, Hembree, Chenault, two stolen bases by Chenault, and an error.

They won the game in the tenth on hits by Wood, Carter, Brock and an error by Barnett and Hembree's out at first.

The crowd at the game was one of the largest of the entire season. During the latter innings interest was at white heat and the fans did more rooting than in any game so far played. The score:

Two Old Ladies Had a Real

Movie Thriller At Shaker Ferry

Harrodsburg, Ky., July 21—A long, wild ride down a long, steep hill to Shaker Ferry and a plunge into the waters of the Kentucky River with the automobile in which they made the ride, were the experiences Tuesday of two aged women. They were Mrs. Hamilton, of Urbana, O. and Mrs. Louis Ernest, Sr., of Madison, Ind. Both are more than 70 years old.

The women remained in an automobile parked at the top of the hill, while others in the party of which they were members went for a motor boat ride. The brakes failed to hold and the car started down toward the river. It held to the road, rounding a corner, and when it went into the river, the women were in water up to their necks.

The tow line of the ferry halted the machine and probably saved the women from drowning. Except for a few minor bruises, they were unhurt.

LEADING TOBACCO MAN FOR COOPERATIVE PLAN

Dr. S. H. Halley, of Lexington, Tells Why It Will Prove of Much Benefit to People

Dr. Samuel H. Halley, president of the Fayette Tobacco Warehouse Company and also one of the largest growers of tobacco in Fayette county, in response to a letter from The Lexington Herald asking an expression of his views on the Burley Tobacco Marketing Association, written a letter in which he states:

"From an economic standpoint from the standpoint of safety and stability, from the standpoint of progress and intelligence, this plan of marketing offers more advantages to the growers of burley than any other plan that has ever been advanced. I believe also that this plan is fundamentally sound and just."

"I not only approve it, but am ready to sign up my own tobacco as soon as the chairman of Fayette county offers me a contract."

Dr. Halley has been intimately connected with the production of and sale of tobacco for the past 25 years. He was a pioneer in the development of the light type of burley tobacco, which is known as the Halley Burley, and has always been an earnest advocate of careful cultivation and housing and handling of tobacco so as to produce the very finest grades.

Some ten or twelve years ago when the loose leaf marketing was first inaugurated, Dr. Halley organized the Fayette Tobacco Warehouse Company, of which he has been president ever since its organization. The company retained the ownership of its warehouses when the majority of the warehouses of Lexington were sold to a combination, and in the subsequent development of the warehouse system through the erection of the great houses owned by the Burley Tobacco Co., Tattersalls and others—the Fayette Tobacco Warehouse Company kept full pace, increasing its facilities to meet the increased demand of its customers.

In his letter Dr. Halley writes: "I have given this plan as careful and conscientious consideration as I am capable of, chiefly because of the responsibility I feel in the capacity of president and general manager of a loose leaf warehouse company which has enjoyed a reasonable amount of success through the continued patronage of hundreds of tobacco growers, and because I feel more deeply than I can express the long continued and loyal support and confidence my fellow stockholders have shown in me since the organization of this company twelve years ago."

A most important paragraph in Dr. Halley's letter is the one in which he tells of a conversation last winter in New York with the president of one of the large tobacco companies whom he quotes as follows: "You tobacco growers think you have all the troubles. Here I have got to borrow money, paying as high as ten per cent interest and buy all the tobacco I need for the entire year at one time and look around for 45 buyers to represent me on all your Kentucky markets. Why don't you have one marketing association where I can go and get what tobacco I need when I need it."

JOE BOGGS TELLS 'EM WHERE TO GET OFF

State Highway Engineer Hands Caustic Call To Louisville Auto President

In a caustic reply to the statement of Albert L. Terstege, president of the Louisville Automobile Club, that the only advocates of the Robison road bill are the mountain people and the State Highway Commission, Joe S. Boggs, State Highway Engineer, charges that the "vacillating policies of the Louisville Automobile Club and the Kentucky Motor Club have done more injury to the cause of better roads in this state than any one action I know of."

"One year you are in favor of an extension of federal aid and against the Townsend bill and in a few months this policy has been reversed. At times you advocate a state bond issue and then some form of direct taxation. No fixed purpose appears to be the result of any policy that has been adopted."

He made this accusation in a letter addressed to Mr. Terstege Wednesday.

At the same time he sent letters to Senator Richard P. Ernst and Robert J. McBryde, president of the Kentucky Good Roads Association. In his letter to Mr. Ernst, Mr. Boggs said:

"The Robison bill is largely an extension of the Bankhead bill, under which Kentucky has been expending federal aid funds for the last two years on a system of trunk line highways some 1,500 miles in length, connection all sections of the state with adjoining states."

"This program of federal aid highways is very complete and is not in need of any changes or additions until present mileage is constructed, and its greatest need is further appropriations by Congress for a continuation of the construction now under way."

"The majority of taxpayers, farmers and business men of Kentucky are for a continuation of federal aid under the present plan as embraced in the Robison bill."

To Mr. McBryde he said: "The plan under which we are now working and using federal aid money is entirely satisfactory to the majority of our people and if no changes are made in the form of administration, it will be but a few years until the 1,500-mile program of federal roads in this state is completed. To adopt the Townsend measure will upset this entire plan and be a great injury to the state."

Mr. Boggs letter to Mr. Terstege in part follows:

"The State Highway Commission, and this office, without loose talk, have supported the Robison bill and will continue to do so until the final vote of the Senate, as we firmly believe that it is for the best interest of federal aid roads in this state that we do so."

"We deny the statement that the only advocates of the Robison bill are the mountain people. Our observation has been that the majority of the taxpayers of this state prefer the construction of 'farm to market' roads rather than a few continuous miles for tourists and pleasure seekers. As an evidence of this I would refer you to the recent referendum among the members of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, which showed that 2,759 farmers of this state were for the Robison bill while only fifty voted for the enactment of the Townsend bill."

"Also the vote of the members of the House of Representatives reflects the sentiment of this country for this bill, which is largely an extension of the present Bankhead bill and permit the states to take the initiative in those projects which develop our community life."

"The sooner the two organizations of which you have the honor to be president, realize that Kentucky is not confined to any one city or section and that there are taxpayers and property owners other than automobilists, the earlier will the interest of all our citizenship be benefitted by road construction in Kentucky."

The daylight savings ballots so far as taken in Louisville indicate three to one against it.
